

Research for better hearing

The everyday life is what counts!

This test leads directly to better hearing

Hearing aid tests under realistic conditions have always been important to us, especially for our Research and Development team. This is the only way to continuously offer our customers the most advanced hearing aid technology.

We are now starting a new KIND Better Hearing Study, and you can actually be part of it. For this we are looking for participants, who want to try the most advanced hearing aid technology in their everyday life. Whether you already wear hearing aids or want to try them for the first time. Please help us, help others and apply for our Better Hearing Study right now.

Best regards,

Dr. Martin Kinkel
Head of Research and Development
